Amy-Ivy

About the song

These days, encountering something so flawless it seems almost surreal is not uncommon, often because we are being deceived by the work of artificial intelligence. In his upcoming release 'Amy-Ivy,' Julian Guba sings about someone who appears too perfect to be true, so flawless that he suspects they might be an AI brought to life.

'Amy-Ivy' promises significant success for the artist, as it was selected for the shortlist in the internal selection for Austria's Eurovision Song Contest entry for 2024. Musically, it is best described as a beautifully perfected electronic pop song. The structure, chord progression, thumping bass, and a typically memorable melody à la Julian Guba all make this song the perfect radio and playlist hit.

Following his last successful hit, 'Get Rid Of You', 'Amy-Ivy' will also feature on Julian Guba's highly anticipated debut album, set to be released in 2024. Both of these songs give a taste of what Julian's new collection will offer the music scene.
